

Mental Health and Community Resources Guide

Preface

We in the Washington State Business Resource Groups (BRGS) recognize that marginalized communities face greater obstacles and barriers in receiving access to proper care and resources when it comes to mental health and additional community resources. We understand that often people have more than one contributing factor in their life that can lead to a crisis such as a job loss, lack of food, needing children's diapers, and will be needing multiple resources to help. This guide was created to identify specific resources for those in marginalized communities that community members could identify and connect with for ongoing mental health care and support needs. This guide also provides resources for intersecting communities, along with anyone needing further supports and resources. This resource guide was put together with careful thought and consideration by all the BRGS as a place to start towards mental wellness and to share with others. We are not endorsing any providers and businesses that are listed and this guide is not an exhaustive list of all the resources that Washington State has to offer, and it is not an exhaustive list of resources offered nationally. If you need additional resources that are not listed in this guide, we recommend going on the internet and visiting wa211.org or by dialing 211 from your phone to see if you can find more information. Please note that at the time this guide was being put together all links were working.

If you or someone you know is experiencing a crisis or thinking of self-harm, please call 911. You can also call the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline 1-800-273-8255 or the Veteran Crisis line 1-800-273-8255 and press 1. If you are in need to talk with someone while you are at work, please contact Employee Assistance Program (EAP) at (877) 313-4455.
